

Welcome to Marlow

Marlow is without doubt one of the loveliest locations on the River Thames. Situated on a broad sweep of the river between Henley and Windsor and within the Chiltern Hills which is designated an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. It has a lively town centre made up of historic streets with small listed buildings and offers an array of shops, restaurants, wine bars and pubs which all add to Marlow's charm. The town's main landmark is the graceful suspension bridge which spans the Thames joining Buckinghamshire and Berkshire. It was completed in 1832 to designs by William Tierney Clark who also designed the bridge across the Danube in Budapest. Marlow's earlier bridges all crossed the river from St Peter Street, one of the oldest and most picturesque parts of the town. The Thames made Marlow what it is today, putting it on the map first as a river crossing and then as an inland port. In the late 18th and 19th centuries Marlow became a fashionable riverside resort and a variety of famous people were attracted to live in the town. Past residents have included Thomas Love Peacock, Jerome K. Jerome, T.S. Eliot and the poet Shelley and his wife who completed her gothic masterpiece Frankenstein whilst living in Marlow. The 18th century also saw the arrival of Dr Battie, a specialist in nervous diseases from whose name the term 'batty' is said to have sprung. He designed and built Court Garden House in Higginson Park, but absent-mindedly forgot to include a staircase! River walks Strolling by the river is one of Marlow's greatest pleasures. You can follow its banks in either direction for easy, level walks with some wonderful scenery.

Upstream

Temple Lock (3 miles return) with a lovely view of Bisham Church on the opposite bank.

Hurley (4.5 miles return) a small village home to one of the oldest inns in the world 'The Olde Bell' and the perfect spot for riverside picnics.

Hambleden (11.5 miles return) with the picturesque lock, a series of weirs and Hambleden Mill you can cross the river here to catch a bus back to Marlow.

Henley (16 miles return) a delightful town famous for its Royal Regatta. You can catch a bus back to Marlow from Henley.

Downstream

Bourne End (6 miles return) pass the wooded slopes of Winter Hill rising on the opposite bank as you leave the town and follow the path through meadows to Bourne End.

Cookham (8 miles return) from Bourne End cross the river at the railway bridge and continue for a further mile onto Cookham which is home to the Stanley Spencer Gallery.

Maidenhead (15 miles return) a bustling town with its 18th-century road bridge and Brunel's famous 'Sounding Arch'.

Windsor (29 miles return) beyond Maidenhead the river becomes busier and in places there are views of grand homes finishing with the grandest of them all, Windsor Castle, towering above the water.
